

FRANCE SEES NO CHANGES AS OUTCOME OF ELECTION

No Great Difference Looms In State Of Parties

RADICALS GAIN

Socialists Win Many Seats In Early Returns

(Reuter's Service)
Paris, May 12.—The first results of the elections show the following have been elected:

Conservatives	7
Republicans	6
Left Republicans	8
Radicals	3
Radical Socialists	29
Republican Socialists	9
Socialists	26
Communists	3

(Reuter's Service)
Paris, May 11.—The elections took place very calmly throughout France.

(Reuter's Service)
Paris, May 11.—The general elections today coincided with the Joan of Arc fete-day. They were carried out in fine weather. There was heavy polling. The earliest returns are in favor of the Government.

(Reuter's Service)
Paris, May 12.—Provisional estimates on the elections indicate that the parties of the Left are gaining some ground, principally in the South, which is a recognised Radical stronghold, but there is no marked change in the state of the parties. Voting is considerably heavier than at the last election. M. Maginot, Minister of War, M. Marin, Minister of the Liberated Regions, and the ex-Premier, M. Briand, have all been elected.

Shanghai Maru Is Slightly Delayed By Minor Accident

Due to some trouble with her electric gear, the N. Y. K. steamer Shanghai Maru arrived at Woosung from Nagasaki yesterday some four hours late. There was no difficulty in handling the ship, however, and she was met at Woosung by two tenders, which brought passengers and baggage up the river, arriving about 9:30 p.m.

The Shanghai Maru, it is announced, will not come up river on this trip, but will leave on schedule time for Nagasaki tomorrow morning, special tenders conveying passengers and baggage to Woosung.

WORLD'S RECORD IS CLAIMED FOR GERMAN GLIDER

(Reuter's Service)
Berlin, May 12.—A telegram from Koenigsberg says that in the course of a competition for German aerial gliders near Memel, the flyer, Herr Schulz, remained in the air for eight hours, 42 minutes and eight seconds, which is claimed to be a world record.

Visitor In Shanghai

MAJOR GEN. OMAR BUNDY

U.S. COMMANDER IN PHILIPPINES IS IN SHANGHAI

Major General Omar Bundy Is Here In Course Of Tour Of China

Major General Omar Bundy, commander of the Philippine Department of the United States Army, arrived in Shanghai Saturday night and will be here for some time in connection with a tour of China.

General Bundy, one of the leaders of the American Expeditionary Forces in France, is one of the high ranking officers in the American army. His present command in the Philippines is his third tour of duty there, he having served in the islands from 1899 to 1902 and again from 1905 to 1907.

General Bundy went to France in October of 1917 as commander of the Second Division of the American Expeditionary Forces, and in July of 1918 was promoted to command of the 6th and 7th Army Corps. During the period of American participation in the World War, he was intimately associated with General John J. Pershing in the direction of the American forces.

CRAIG OPPOSES COMMISSION IN BORDER DISPUTE

Ulster Leader Urges Attempt To Settle Boundary By Agreement

(Reuter's Service)
London, May 11.—Sir James Craig, the North Ireland Premier, in an interview on the Irish boundary question, declared that the only course open was to drop the whole idea of a Commission, which aims at an arbitrary settlement that would only lead straight to serious troubles, and aim instead at a settlement by mutual agreement between the two Governments concerned on the principle of give and take, which would leave no grievance or bitterness behind and would command the assent of the peoples and of the two Parliaments. It was no use pretending that any other settlement would assure peace and concord. A settlement could not be reached by "outsiders" who were ignorant of the facts.

U. S. ARMY WILL ATTEMPT FLIGHT ACROSS COUNTRY

Seek To Span Continent Between Daylight And Dusk

(Exclusive China Press)
New York, May 11.—It was announced here today that the United States Army will make a third attempt to span the country by airplane between daylight and dark on the same day. The flight will be made from Mitchell Field, Long Island, to San Francisco, California, some time in June.

KENSEIKAI IN JAPAN HOLD FRONT RANK IN ELECTION

Independents Strong In Race For Diet

VOTE INDECISIVE

Seats Divided Among Several Political Groups

(Eastern News Agency)
Tokio, May 12.—The results of the general election at 7 p.m. today were:

Kenseikai	117
Selyukai	78
Selyuhonto	79
Kakushin Club	24
Jitsugyo Doshikai	8
Neutrals	52

The leading persons returned are: Mr. Kotaro Mochizuki, Mr. Masanosuke Kato, Mr. Masao Kanda, Mr. Ikuzo Ooka, Mr. Keisuke Mochizuki, Mr. Uchiro Hirooka, Mr. Toyokichi Tabuchi, Mr. Yetsujiro Uyehara. Those who failed to return are Mr. Kaku Mori, Mr. Fusajiro Ichinomiya, Mr. Kumachi Tanabe, Mr. Koreschige Tsunoda, Mr. Toshio Shimada.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Tokio, May 12.—The results of the elections up to five this evening were as follows:

Kenseikai	103
Selyukai	65
Selyuhonto	62
Kakushin Club	21
Businessmen's Party	9
Independents	38

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Osaka, May 12.—The popular election cry "Down with privileged class Government" appears to have carried the day. The results up to seven tonight conclusively confirm the view expressed by businessmen here on May 9 that the result of the elections would probably be much like the British election in December, namely, that the Government party would fail to secure a majority and that the principal parties none of which would hold a majority. The Government's supporters are far short of the majority while the Opposition parties have already secured 242 out of 464 seats in the Lower House. The Kenseikai is leading and will probably return 150 members.

HIGH MASON HERE IS GUEST TONIGHT FOR RECEPTION

Earl Of Cassillis To Be Entertained At Astor House

The Rising Sun Royal Arch Chapter, No. (129), S.C., will be hosts tonight at 8:15 o'clock at the Astor House to the Earl and Countess of Cassillis at a reception.

The Earl of Cassillis, whose rank as the M. E. First Grand Principal of the Supreme Grand Royal Arch Chapter of Scotland places him in the foremost ranks of the order, attended last evening at a convocation of the Rising Sun Royal Arch Chapter at the Masonic Hall. Following this a banquet was held in the Earl's honor at the Astor House.

At noon today the St. Andrew's Society is to entertain the Earl at tiffin at the Shanghai Club.

The Earl of Cassillis is president of the St. Andrew's Society of Glasgow, a member of the Royal Society of Archers and of H. M. Bodyguard for Scotland. He served with the Royal Scots Fusiliers during the South African War, for which he was decorated, and also served with the British Expeditionary Forces in the Great War from December 1914 to May 1919, being mentioned in dispatches for his services.

70 DROWNED IN FORMOSA WRECK; REPORT IN TOKIO

Many Lose Lives As Motor Boat Capsizes, Dispatches Say

(Exclusive China Press)

Tokio, May 11.—Press dispatches from Keelung, Formosa say that seventy are believed to be dead as the result of the capsizing of the motorboat Kinga Maru near Keelung.

At the time of the capsizing of the ship, one hundred persons were aboard, including the crew and passengers. Up to the present time, only thirty have been rescued, the messages say.

BIG JUDGMENT GIVEN AGAINST GARAGE FIRM

Probst, Hanbury And Co. Are Awarded Tls. 98,457 In Action

Judgment for a sum of Tls. 98,278.33 and Tls. 2,178.79 interest, was entered against the Central Garage Co., in favor of Probst, Hanbury and Co., Ltd., by Judge Sir Skinner Turner, in H. B. M. Supreme Court, yesterday. Mr. R. E. S. Gregson appeared for plaintiffs, defendants were not legally represented. Mr. G. H. Wright appeared on behalf of the owner of the land on which the defendant company carry on their business.

Plaintiffs' claim was for (1) Tls. 98,278.33 for goods supplied and money advanced to or paid on behalf of the defendants by plaintiffs at defendants' request and for their benefit in accordance with statements periodically rendered by plaintiffs to the defendants, (2) Tls. 2,178.79, being agreed interest on the sum of Tls. 98,278.33 at seven percent per annum from January 1, 1921, to the date of the writ. There was a third claim for Tls. 29,189.96, made up of a number of smaller items.

An affidavit filed by Frederick Rayden, director of the plaintiffs, stated that defendants were indebted to the plaintiffs in the sum of Tls. 98,457.12, in connection with which he believed there was no defence to the action. With regard to certain items in the third claim there was a dispute proper for the decision of the Court.

His Lordship entered judgment, as stated above, in respect of the first two claims, giving leave to defend with regard to the balance, with an order for pleadings. Costs were reserved.

LOCAL ARTISTS TO DISPLAY AT EXHIBIT TODAY

Exhibition Of Paintings And Sculpture To Be Opened This Morning

The Grand Spring Art Exhibition of pictures and sculpture representing the work of artists from all over China will be opened formally this morning at 11 o'clock by Mr. Stirling Fessenden, chairman of the Shanghai Municipal Council.

Pictures and statuary have been arriving in such numbers as fairly to swamp the committee who have been working overtime to tag and catalogue them before hanging. It is estimated that more than 600 exhibits had been received up to yesterday.

The exhibition, under the auspices of the China Society of Science and Arts, will continue for three days and will be the forerunner of similar exhibitions of bi-annual occurrence.

Invitations have been sent out to about 100 consuls, officials and prominent residents and the exhibition seems assured of success. The exhibition rooms on the second floor of the North China Daily News Building have been transformed by potted plants and flowers lent and arranged by Mr. D. MacGregor, superintendent of parks, and horticultural expert. Arts and Crafts have lent attractive furniture for the use of guests who may wish to spend some time at the exhibition.

U. S. NAVY IS BELOW RATIO, IS ASSERTION OF ROOSEVELT

Assistant Navy Chief Appears At House Hearing

URGES BUILDING

Japan Far Ahead In Cruisers, He Declares

(BY UNITED PRESS)

Washington, May 11.—Mr. Theodore Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the Navy, today told the House of Representatives committee on naval affairs that the United States fleet is seriously lacking in operating bases, both in the Atlantic and the Pacific.

Mr. Roosevelt also declared that there was a serious deficiency as regards naval oil reserves. Thirteen American battleships, he said, are deficient in gun range. The actual ratio between the navies of Great Britain, America and Japan, Mr. Roosevelt estimated at: Great Britain, five; America, four and Japan three.

Mr. Roosevelt asserted that the cruiser ratio is: Great Britain, five; Japan, three, and America, one. America, he said, was 200,000 tons short of Great Britain in the matter of cruiser strength. He recommended improvement along all lines, and that the United States build to the full extent permitted under the agreements reached at the Washington Conference on limitation of armaments.

(Reuter's American Service)

Washington, May 11.—Mr. Theodore Roosevelt, the Assistant Secretary of the Navy, in a report to the Chairman of the House of Representatives Naval Affairs Committee agrees with the suggestion, made during the controversy proceeding here, that a fair comparison of the fighting strength of the British, American and Japanese Navies is represented by the figures 5: 4: 3, instead of 5: 6: 3 as provided in the Washington Naval Treaty. These figures did not take into account strategically located naval bases, nor the relative strength of the various merchant marines.

Mr. Roosevelt refers approvingly to the Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Wilbur's recommendations in his last annual report for the complete modernisation of American battleships at a cost of $30,000,000, and also to the fact that Congress has been asked to authorize the modernisation of six coal-burning battleships and the construction of eight 10,000-ton light cruisers. He says that the Navy is in good shape, except for these deficiencies.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, May 5.—Reports of the views expressed in America and Great Britain on the question of calling a conference for the further limitation of naval armaments find an echo in the Japanese press, which, however, urges that each nation taking part in such a conference must insist on retaining that standard of naval and air equipment constituting the minimum strength essential for self-defence and protection.

The Kokumin holds that the Washington Conference failed to

BANK OFFICIALS IN PHILIPPINES SUED FOR LOSS

Former Directors Of National Bank Are Asked To Pay Shortage

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, May 12.—The following ex-directors of the National Bank were sued civilly this morning to recover the losses incurred during the Harrison Administration. Mr. Archibald Harrison, brother of the ex-Governor-General, Senator Fernandez, and Messrs. Delaney, Madrigal, Concepcion, Berry and Encarnacion. The suits have been long delayed, and it was only the strongest pressure by Governor-General Wood that resulted in action being taken. Six other complaints are expected to be laid shortly.

It Rained Snakes On Sunday

So At Least Avers One Of Shanghai's Best Citizens

Really It Did On The Bund!

The grandest, back-action, hardest to strangle and generally most disconcerting alibi for a night out was provided extemporaneously by Old Ma Nature in Shanghai on Sunday morning—according to a church-going citizen whose wife now regards him with suspicion in spite of the evidence.

When said citizen entered his domicile after a matutinal stroll on Sunday and encountered the widely eye he responded:

"Yes, dear, but I've been down on the Bund where it has been raining reptiles all night. This is something for the Council to take under their sympathetic or otherwise consideration, and as a hitherto indeterminate factor at a long succession of ratepayers' meetings I considered it my duty to pause and investigate. There were brown snakes and green snakes and snakes with polka-dot neckbands. Also assorted tortoises and mud turtles, with a sprinkling of alligators at any moment. And, moreover—"

"That'll be about plenty," snorts friend wife, reaching for the broom.

the broom—according to our aggrieved informant. "Get out that sofa and orient yourself. I don't want any pink rhinoceroses or striped wampuses tracking my clean living room."

Whereupon aforesaid citizen produced the evidence aforementioned.

"Look—" says he, and hauls out an extremely vexed diamond-back snapping turtle, size about 4 by 6. (This was afterward exhibited to our representative, and seemed to be a genuine specimen of whatever species it represented.)

At this point the reptile seems to have become more than somewhat garbled.

"But it's the truth," our informant tearfully declared. "Snakes, snakes, snakes—I never saw so many snakes, even in my college days, which were considerably pre-Volstead. And I've been a temperate cuss for many years, and practically teetotal since yesterday. There were snakes in the gutters and on the foreshore and festooning the bund rails and generally all over the place. And the Chinese were scooping 'em in or bashing them with clubs or shinning the shade trees till you'd think it was a 'location' day on the D. W. Griffith 'lot' for framing up a Hibernian film to be entitled 'How Did we get along before St. Patrick Came?'"

"They ranged from six inches long to six feet—the snakes—and the turtles made up in numbers what they lacked in size. I leave it to you if I wasn't right in selecting a turtle to bring home as against a snake. And look what happened when I got there! I can buy those things in the Native City or from hawkers on the street," says the wife. So what's the use of witnessing a remarkable phenomenon like that when all you get out of it is a lot of ridicule and a caustic commendation for signing the pledge. So please put something in the paper about this shower of snakes and things and maybe somebody else who happened to be out at the time and knows the facts will write in and give me a little support. Otherwise I'm through with telling the truth!"

Independent investigation of the agitated informant's story developed what appears to be substantiating evidence from several Chinese sources—at least so far as the presence of numerous reptiles on the Bund is concerned. The theory of their arrival, however, differs, in that it is believed the snakes and turtles were deposited along the foreshore by the tide. It is said that some time ago there was a slight visitation, when the sweep of a high tide, landed hundreds of snakes, turtles and frogs along the Bund.

MAJ. MARTIN, U.S. AVIATOR SAFE AFTER ARCTIC CRASH

Globe Flight Leader And Mechanic Unharmed

LANE WRECKED

Flyers Collide With Mountain In Big Storm

(BY UNITED PRESS)

Washington, May 11.—Major Frederick L. Martin, leader of the American round-the-world airplanes, and his mechanic arrived at Port Moller, Alaska on Sunday night, fatigued but in good condition, after having been missing for more than ten days since they took off from Cordova, Alaska, in an attempt to catch up with the other American round-the-world planes. They had walked for ten days through the mountain wildernesses of Alaska in order to reach Port Moller.

Major Martin's airplane, it was revealed when he reached Port Moller, had been demolished when it collided with a mountain during a snow storm. He and his companion waited until the storm cleared. Then they took their bearings and started for Port Moller.

When the crash came, Major Martin reported to the War Department, he was flying blindly in the hope of remaining in the air until the storm abated.

Word of Major Martin's safe arrival at Port Moller has brought rejoicing to the American nation, which, for the past ten days, has believed that he and his mechanic most probably met their deaths in the Far Arctic. The United States Coast Guard Cutter Albatross is proceeding at once to take the aviators aboard. The other flyers engaged in the round-the-world attempt have been notified that Major Martin is safe and are jubilant.

(Reuter's American Service)
Cordova, Alaska, May 11.—Major Martin and his mechanic have safely arrived at Port Moller, Alaska.

Major Martin sends a wireless message that his aeroplane was totally wrecked. It crashed on a mountain in a fog on April 30. They arrived at a trappers' cabin on May 7, exhausted. They found food in the cabin, where they rested for three days. Major Martin adds: "Our existence is due to concentrated food and our nerve."

SINO-GERMAN NEGOTIATIONS ARE REVEALED

Premier Makes Statement in House Regarding New Arrangement

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, May 11.—The House of Representatives summoned the Prime Minister, Mr. Sun Pao-chi, yesterday asking for a statement regarding the Sino-German negotiations. The Premier informed the House that the results promised to be greatly to the advantage of China, therein differing from the arrangement to pay the French indemnity in gold francs, which Parliament voted in 1923, but the discussions had not reached a stage where they could be submitted to Parliament.

It is understood that the negotiations which were carried on very secretly between German bankers and the Ministry of Finance, provide for the release of the reserve in London against German drawn bonds and coupons of the Reorganisation Loan amounting to approximately $15,000,000, which will be paid to China in cash by instalments. Germany will be responsible for the payment of outstanding German bonds and coupons of the Reorganisation Loan and also the Tientsin-Pukow and Hinkuang loans, which will be revaluated, the obligations on which have been piling up since August, 1917. Germany's quid pro quo consists of rehabilitation of the Deutsche Asiatische Bank.

There is reason to believe that the arrangements have been submitted to Berlin and that if approved there it will be formally taken up by the German Legation and the Wariaopu.

Steamers Held Up In River By Low Water

(Independent News Service)

Ichang, May 2.—The larger vessels which navigate the upper river between Ichang and Chungking have been handicapped in their attempt to open the season's voyages on account of lack of water. Those ships which took advantage of the first rise of water and reached Chungking are now detained there on account of a subsequent heavy fall making it impossible for them to leave for down river. The river is again rising, but very slowly, and only the smaller vessels can make any headway.

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 11.—It is officially announced that Queen Alexandra's health continues satisfactory, but, in order to avoid unnecessary fatigue, it has been decided that it would be better that she should not take personal part in the public celebrations of Alexandra Day on June 25, nor has a date been fixed for her return to London.

Communists Gain In America, Claim

(Reuter's Service)

Riga, May 12.—A telegram from Moscow says that a meeting of the executive committee of the Communist Youth's International on May 5 discussed Communism in America. It was stated that nine new organisations had recently been started at St. Louis for communising young miners and factory workers. It was also reported that two new Communist organisations had started in Africa, where propaganda was being carried on among the natives.

of the poll at Morioka, Numadzu and elsewhere led to a recrudescence of disturbances. Partisans of the defeated candidates stormed their rivals' committee-rooms, doing considerable damage to property. Factional fights at Numadzu necessitated calling up police reinforcements from neighboring towns before order was restored.

The results up to noon today were as follows:

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, May 10.—Brilliant sunshine favored election day, when the candidates and canvassers were early astir. The booths opened at six o'clock this morning and closed at six this evening.

In Tokio the voting passed off quietly, but reports from the provinces indicate that the excitement has resulted in many places in clashes between the rivals, sometimes ending in bloodshed.

The greatest interest centers at Morioka, where Mr. Takahashi, the President of the Seiyukai, is facing a very hot struggle.

More than 500 canvassers have been arrested for alleged violation of the election law.

The counting will take place tomorrow.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, May 11.—Mr. Takahashi, the leader of the Seiyukai party, has been elected for Morioka.

Later, with the counting of the returns except in the principal cities postponed till Monday, the final results of the elections will not be known till Tuesday or even Wednesday.

The most interesting result hitherto announced is that at Morioka, where Mr. Takahashi's majority of 49 is larger than was anticipated.

Reports from the provinces regarding the incidents on polling-day multiply the instances of violence and clashes between canvassers, giving evidence of the bitterness of the struggle for votes, while allegations of "Government interference" are prominently featured.

The opinion is generally expressed that the Government must be in a minority against the combination of the Opposition parties.

The returns until four o'clock this afternoon are as follow:

Kenseikai	37
Seiyukai	31
Kakushin Club	8
Seiyuhanto	16
Business men	6
Independents	16

Among those defeated is Mr. Nakahashi, former Minister of Education and the leader of the Seiyuhanto.

POINCARÉ AND MACDONALD TO MEET MAY 19

Date Of Conference Of French And British Premiers Is Altered

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 10.—It appears that Mr. Ramsay MacDonald's invitation to M. Poincaré was despatched only on Friday afternoon. Acceptance was received in the same evening to meet at Mr. MacDonald's convenience. The date of the meeting has been altered to May 19. The reparations experts' reports will be discussed. According to the Matin, M. Poincaré will be attended by an interpreter only.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, May 10.—The Executive Committee of the German Socialist Party has decided to demand that the question of acceptance or rejection of the experts' reports shall be submitted to a popular referendum in order to ascertain German public opinion.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, May 10.—The news of the forthcoming meeting between M. Poincaré and Mr. Ramsay MacDonald at the Chequers is received with satisfaction by the entire French press and is interpreted as an excellent proof of the good relations which M. MacDonald established with M. Poincaré at the time of his arrival in power. Political circles in London show satisfaction at the forthcoming visit of M. Poincaré.

McAdoo May Get Democratic Nomination

(BY UNITED PRESS)

Columbia, S. C., May 6.—Following the announcement that five counties of South Carolina had already instructed their delegates for McAdoo in the Democratic National Convention, it was predicted today that McAdoo rather than Underwood will get the state. Mr. McAdoo has not denounced the Ku Klux Klan but has favored giving it the same rights of free speech and free action within the law, that is accorded all fraternal organizations. Senator Underwood has opposed the methods of the Klan and that alone is said to have lost the Georgia delegates who were also instructed for McAdoo.

Classical Concert To Be Given Tonight

Tonight at 9.15 Professor P. E. Solviovoff, well-known in Shanghai as a singer and teacher of music, will give a classical concert, in which he will be assisted by several of his pupils who have already made names for themselves in local circles.

The program is a long and varied one and will be rendered by the following: Mrs. F. Jones, Mrs. E. Kasturians, Miss Shoulin and Mrs. J. Feely.

and favor in France, because the plan proposed for the restriction of auxiliary vessels disregarded France's ideas as to her essential defense needs. Any similar conference, says the paper, is bound to fail, if that principle is slighted.

The Asahi attributes to the naval authorities the statement that a second conference to complete the work begun at Washington, is both welcome and necessary, though they are reported as rather sceptical about tangible results in the present complications on the continent of Europe. The Journal claims to have learnt that preliminary investigations into the scope of such a conference and the basis of Japan's participation are already in hand.

Preferential Rule On U.S. Shipping Is Definitely Annulled

(Reuter's American Service)

Washington, May 10.—The Inter-State Commerce Commission has annulled the section of the Merchant Marine Law relating to preferential railway rates for goods destined to be carried on American ships. The order will be set aside until the Shipping Board again certifies that there is a sufficiency of American vessels and the Commission acts on such certification.

'Imperial Violets'

A powerful drama of love and intrigue with a historical background furnishes the theme for the film of the above name which was screened for the first time last night at the Olympic Theater before an eager audience whose expectations were not unfulfilled. The outstanding character in this picture is Raquel Meller, the gifted Spanish stage and screen actress, whose performance is endowed with a genuine fervor which is altogether convincing.

"Imperial Violets" is the love romance of a beautiful florist. The story commences in sunny Seville and ends on the Imperial Throne of France. The splendor of the Court of Napoleon and the Empress Eugenie is revived in the film with fidelity to historical detail. It is the story of a beautiful devotion of one woman to another, and the scene in which the former florist who has become

Notice To Subscribers

In an endeavor to produce an even better paper than was formerly the case—an endeavor which the steadily growing popularity of THE CHINA PRESS has proved to be successful—the publishers have recently increased the editorial staff, supplemented the cable and foreign correspondence services, added a pictorial news section, and improved the editorial and feature contents. These improvements naturally entail a much heavier cost of production, and thus we are reluctantly compelled to increase our rates of subscription, as from April 1st, as follows:

One Year	Mex. $28.00
Six Months	" 15.00
Four Months	" 10.50
One Month	" 2.75

Postage to outports, etc.
$6.00 per annum extra.

Under the new rates subscribers will still obtain THE CHINA PRESS more cheaply than it can be purchased day by day on the street. Allowing 312 publishing days to the year (230 weekdays and 82 Sundays), the annual cost, if purchased on the street, is $36.40.

The China Press remarks that the methods of squeezing practised by Government officials upon the poor people in the country are legion in their variety. The latest is reported from the district of Hanchuan, where it is said that the farmers have been given false receipts—embellished with false stamps and seals—upon collection of their land-taxes. A few days later the collectors come round again with the real tax receipts and tell the farmers that they have been hoaxed. It is said that charges have been made against ten officials for this trick and they have been arrested and sent to Wuchang.

Science Teachers Institute Planned

A summer institute for Science Teachers at Tsinghua College, Peking, under the auspices of the National Association for the Advancement of Education will open on July 10 and run for four weeks, closing August 8.

This institute was planned for college graduates who are now teaching science in colleges and middle schools. The number of members was fixed at 150 and already 127 of this number have registered. It will be necessary to refuse those who register after the full number has been entered, for quality of class and laboratory work will be maintained. The institute offers three courses, Biology, Chemistry and Physics—each course to be given in Chinese and English and to be under the direction of two instructors.

American School Runners Found Ineligible, Cross Country Trophy Returned

Shield, Won At Recent Interscholastic Event, Turned Over To Public School, Pending Decision On Status Of Competing Athlete

The Shanghai Interscholastic Athletic Association held its fourth Annual Cross Country Run recently when a field of close on fifty runners turned out to compete for their respective Schools, the Shanghai American School, the Public School, the Thomas Hanbury School and the Shanghai Jewish School. This year new conditions were introduced, the first ten to finish, instead of the first five, constituting each School's team. In spite of the sudden state of the country owing to the recent rains, the event proved to be more closely contested than in any previous year, the Shanghai American School and the Public School running a neck and neck race for premier position.

On the first count it was decided that the race had been won by the American School with 118 points against the Public School being a close second with 126. The Thomas Hanbury and the Jewish Schools both had individual runners well placed but neither was able to raise the requisite number of runners to compete in the team race. The shield was accordingly presented to the American School by Mrs. R. Hoss, who very kindly represented the donors, the Shanghai Oxford and Cambridge Society.

A notable feature of the race was the new record established by I. Greenberg of the Public School, who completed the course of a little over three and a half miles in 20 min. 41 secs., the old record, established by the late J. David, also of the Public School, being 22 min. 29 secs.

Ribbons were presented to the winning team as well as to the following twelve individuals:

1. I. Greenberg, Public School.
2. J. Pilley, American School.
3. S. Moslem, Public School.
4. M. Estes, American School.
5. H. Giffin, American School.
6. I. Jonah, Public School.
7. M. Pilley, American School.
8. J. Dobrinia, Hanbury School.
9. D. Lawton, American School.

Small Bore Club Shoots Against Essex Regiment

Members turned out on Saturday for the 10th for practice for the Rifle match on the Sunday in very unfavorable weather conditions. Light was very changeable, occasional showers, and a strong S.W. wind, made shooting more than difficult. The fourth competition for the Shanghai Sunday Times Cup was also held. This called for a stiff task in 10 rounds on 5 ball match cards, 10 rounds in the sitting position off hand on small decimals, and 10 rounds on time limits at 50 yards in 30 seconds. Under the conditions mentioned only six members decided to face the music, and scores suffered rather badly. Results:

	25 yds.	25 yds.	50 yds.
	5 ball card	sitting	time limit
T. W. Mitchell	96	92	83	271*
E. E. Hodges	95	85	80	269.5
H. Mende	89	80	64	233*
N. Lambert	97	76	61	233.5
C. Langley	99	44	66	200
A. M. Collico	87	85	52	194

*Spoons awarded
On Sunday the 11th at 3.30 the match was fired against the Essex Regiment. Weather conditions in the morning promised a change for the better but it was disappointing to find things slowly "as you were" or even a bit worse by the time the shoot started. Full scores follow. The Essex scores will be published as soon as received. It is thought that the Shanghai scores will be beaten so we must look forward to the return match next year.

HERE'S DETAIL OF CHESS TOURNEY PLAY IN NEW YORK

Enthusiasts Here Greatly Interested In Technique Of Masters

Chess enthusiasts here, as everywhere else in the world, were greatly interested in the recent international chess tournament in New York, and which resulted in a victory for Dr. Lasker, who for twenty-seven years was world's champion, over a field comprising most of the chess masters of the world.

As showing the quality of play we present herewith a chart of one of Capablanca's games, his opponent on this occasion being Mr. Marshall.

S'HAIR AMERICAN SCHOOL DEFEATS KASHING, 94-45

Chinese Athletes, While Losing, Show Improvement Over Last Year

The Shanghai American School track team, defeated, on Saturday, an all Kashing team composed of the Kashing High School and Middle Schools in the annual track meet, by the score of 94-45.

The Chinese lads showed a marked improvement in every event, as last year the final tally was 112-15. B. S. Tsu who won the 220 yards low hurdles, cleared them in fine style, as well as in time, 28 4-5 seconds.

Three Shanghai American School records were broken, the running broad jump, the running high jump and the discus throw, as well as tying the 220 yards dash record. Lipson, the high point man of the meet, broke two of the records, leaping 19 ft. 2 in. in the broad jump and throwing the discus 96 ft. 1 in. "Hank" Carleton broke the other record by clearing the bar at 5 ft. 3 in. In the high jump one of the surprises of the meet was furnished by Charles Squires, who tied for first place with Earl Gossard in the pole vault.

Despite the bad weather the Chinese hosts were untiring in their efforts to give the lads from Shanghai a good time. The coaches of the school at a tea served after the meet by the Kashing School, said they hoped that the next meet, would prove even closer, than the ones of previous years. Summaries:

100 yards dash—W. Dyson, 1; Tsang Kwai, 2; Wong Chi, 3; H. Brewster, 4. Time—11 seconds.

Pole Vault—E. Gossard and C. Squires, 1, tie; A. Grafton, 3; Ting Nyoh-lan, 4. Height—9 ft. 8 in.

American Team Defeats Rumania By 37 Points To 0; To Meet France

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, May 11.—The United States beat Rumania by 37 points to 0 in the Olympic rugby competition.

The Americans will meet France in the final on May 18. The odds are regarded as favoring France.

The Americans today played a hard, dashing game, but rough stuff was conspicuously absent. The centre three-quarter, Hyland, played a brilliant game. He scored four tries and was largely responsible for two more.

Popular Inspector Leaving For Home Gets Rousing Send-Off

One of the rousingest "bon voyages" accorded a Shanghai departure in many, many moons was that accorded last Sunday to Chief Inspector "Tom" Kerrigan, popular presiding deity at Louisa Police Station, who sailed for home on leave, via America, by the Empress of Asia.

Not content with the more than sizeable demonstration accorded the departing chief at Louisa, the Chinese attached to that station, proceeded swiftly to the waterfront, where they had chartered a couple of cargo barges and a launch. The two former to be freighted almost to capacity with hales of crackers and double-barrelled bombs and the Bund resounded for the space the tender lingered there to detonations reminiscent of the Western Front. When the tender pulled out, the launch and its attendant craft swung with it and accompanied it clear to the Asia's berthing place, crackers and bombs whanging away during the entire route.

Previous to his departure Chief Inspector Kerrigan was the guest at a number of dinners and receptions held in his honor by friends in and outside of the force. On Thursday night there was a dinner at which members of the department and others, with their wives, were present. On Friday afternoon at Louisa Station there was a pleasant presentation ceremony, presided over by Detective Chief Inspector A. Eek, when Mr. Kerrigan was presented with a handsome pair of binoculars. Later on Friday there was another pleasant gathering at the Municipal Club, when a number of intimate friends of Chief Inspector Kerrigan presented him with a fine case of pipes. The presentation was made by Chief Inspector James Sinclair and Mr. Kerrigan was the recipient of hearty good wishes for a pleasant trip and a speedy return to Shanghai.

The University Club Appropriates $200 For American School

Will Hold Outing Party To Henli On May 31 During Regatta

The American University Club at its executive committee meeting held at the Union Club yesterday, made an appropriation of two hundred dollars to the American School for the purchase of books on Chinese subjects and for a cash prize for the winning essay on some Chinese topic. The educational committee headed by Dr. J. C. McCracken will complete the final details with the school authorities as to the competition to be conducted among the pupils.

The meeting further decided to hold an outing party at Henli on May 31 and June 1 during the regatta to be held there by the Shanghai Rowing Club. The club will make special arrangements to take care of the party with the railway and the regatta committee.

Mr. Turpin Hsi, representing Boston Tech, joined the committee for the first time yesterday, succeeding Mr. V. Fong Lam.

'Officer 666'

A large and enthusiastic audience greeted a group of local amateurs last night at the Apollo Theater on the occasion of their first appearance in the American comedy, "Officer 666". The performance was under the patronage of Mr. Alfredo Casonova, consul-general for Portugal.

The amateur thespians acquitted themselves quite creditably in the production. Particularly worthy of note were Mr. A. A. Britto as Bateato, a Japanese servant, Mr. B. F. M. Marques, as Officer 666, Miss Olive Remedios as Helen Burton, Miss Irene dos Remedios as Sadie Small, and Miss Helen Encarnacao as Mrs. Burton. The staging and costuming was exceptionally good, and throughout there was a smoothness that gave no hint of anything amateurishness in the performance.

Wedding

COOPER—WHITE

A very pretty wedding took place yesterday afternoon at St. Joseph's Church, when Miss Florence Maude White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Augustus White, was married to Mr. Thomas Austin Cooper, son of Mrs. A. Cooper, of Dulwich, London.

The church ceremony was preceded by the civil ceremony at the British Consulate-General before Mr. Sidney Barton, British Consul-General. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion and a large number of friends of the young couple were in attendance.

Miss White, who was given away by her father, was charmingly dressed in a gown of silver lace over white tulle, with silver ribbon and a corsage of orange blossoms. Her veil was of crepe tulle, sweeping into a train held by narrow wreath of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of pink roses tied with silver ribbon.

The bridesmaids, Miss Beatrice White and Miss Monica Cooper, sisters of the bride and groom respectively, were dressed in dainty blue organdie over mauve, their dresses being trimmed with pastel shaded ribbons and adorned with girlish of the same shades. They wore pale blue picture hats and carried bouquets of sweet peas tied with blue and mauve colored ribbons. Miss Joyce Bidwell, cousin of the bride, acted as flower girl in a dress of pale blue organdie with a wreath of forget-me-nots around her waist and another wreath of the same dainty flowerlets in her hair. She carried a silver basket of flower petals.

Mrs. White, the bride's mother wore a beautiful gown of grey georgette, embroidered and braided with steel beads, with cloche shaped black hat trimmed with flowers and blue velvet.

Mr. P. L. Clarke acted as best man while Messrs. H. A. White, C. E. Ollerodsen, A. E. Ellis and J. B. Brown acted as ushers.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, "Whitehaven." Mr. and Mrs. White, by coincidence, yesterday celebrated the 30th anniversary of their wedding and the good wishes of the many attending the wedding and reception were extended to them as well as to the young couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Cooper left for Hangchow on their honeymoon.

Japanese May Send Additional Troops To Protect Korea

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokyo, May 5.—The question of stationing an additional military division in Korea is reported to be engaging the attention of the War Department.

The need for further protection is understood to be due to increasing activities on the part of malcontent Koreans, and a request to that end is reported to have been sent in to the military authorities by the Government-General.

No decision has as yet been arrived at, though the topography of the country seems to warrant the increase.

It is felt that the creation of a new division for this special purpose would not only involve too large an expenditure, but would be inconsistent with the present policy of military reinforcement.

It appears likely, therefore, that the demand may be met by the transfer to Korea of one of the divisions stationed in Japan proper.

U. S. Vote On Boxer Fund Is Gratifying To Peking

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Peking, May 9.—Chinese Government officials express gratification at the action of the American House of Representatives in passing the resolution in favour of relieving China of further payments of the Boxer Indemnity. It is pointed out, however, that the resolution has yet to go before the Senate. The resolution in question is identical with one brought forward on July, 20, 1921, which passed one House and then died owing to failure to pass the other. The original resolution provided: That the President be hereby authorised in his discretion to remit to the Chinese Government as an act of friendship any or all further payments of the annual instalments of the Chinese indemnity due under the bond for $24,440,778.81 received from the Chinese Government pursuant to the Protocol of September 7, 1901 as modified by executive order on December 28, 1906, pursuant to the authority of the joint resolution of Congress approved on May 25, 1908, for indemnity against losses and expenses incurred by reason of the so-called Boxer disturbances in China during the year 1900, such remission to begin as from 1917 and to be at such times and in such manner, as the President shall deem just. As stated before this measure failed to pass both Houses and as reintroduced in the present Congress.

The year 1917 was quoted in this resolution as suspension of payments to the Allies began in that year. Thus when the resolution was introduced the five years suspension had not ended. The resolution, therefore, must have been altered in that respect by being brought up to date. Remission such as the resolution calls for would not affect arrangements made in 1908, regarding Tsinghua College for instance. The actual remission would represent about fifty percent of the total indebtedness to the United States.

Division Transfer Refused By Peking; Gen. Wang Resigns

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Peking, May 9.—Further light on the withdrawal of General Wang Chen-ping's resignation is given by the report that the Military Council informed General Wang that it could not permit the transfer of a portion of the 23rd Division to Peking, as there were already too many troops

there. The Division, therefore, is to remain at Machang.
The Government has telegraphed to General Lu Chin-shan, Commandant of the 8th (Hupai) Division in Szechuan, asking him to inquire into the relations of Generals Yang Sen and Liu Tsun-hou and furnish a report.
According to recent reports from Szechuan the position of the Northern forces there has been considerably strengthened by several neutral or hostile bodies of Szechuanese coming over to their side, and Liu and Yang are now co-operating satisfactorily.

Famous Scotch Singer Coming

MR. WILLIAM HEUGHAN

Mr. William Heughan, who will sing at the Lyceum Theatre on May 19, first saw the light of day thirty-five years ago in the town of Dalbeattie, Kirkcubright, Scotland. At an early age he clearly showed that the musical mantle of his ancestors had fallen upon his shoulders. Through the centuries, the Eoghain Clan, now extinct, were the hereditary minstrels and bards to the Dukes of Argyll. When, therefore, a singer with this tradition tingling in his veins is at the same time blessed by nature with one of the finest bass voices that the world has known, it is not surprising that on all those occasions when he has appeared in public, he has received paeans of praise from the Press and Public alike.

Although Mr. Heughan has had the unique honor of being specially chosen from amongst all the Scotch singers to sing at the great Burns Concert at the Royal Albert Hall, London, for three years in succession, and moreover, although he has had his great successes with Burns nights and Scotch programs, he is not convinced or limited in his art to this type of music alone, for he has an operatic repertoire which includes practically all the leading bass roles, and for five years was one of the leading basses in the Grand Opera Seasons at the Royal Opera, Covent Garden, London. No expense or care was spared in his musical studies. His first tutor was the celebrated Professor Albert Visetti, in London, and subsequently to that he studied under the eminent Maestro Vincenzo Sabatini, of Milan, who thought so much of his wonderful voice, combined with an astonishing talent for dramatic acting,

that he used his influence to get this young singer, a Scotsman, into most of the leading Italian Opera Houses, where he, through his singing and art, not only overcame the national prejudice against a foreigner, but scored great successes.

As a singer of traditional Scotch songs, Mr. Heughan has been recognised as the legitimate successor to Andrew Black, Hamilton Corbett and David Kennedy, and the Scottish people are happy in the thought that the interpretation of their beloved songs can be left in such worthy hands to give joy to the Scottish and other people throughout the globe during his world tour.

Mr. Heughan served his country with distinction during the war in the 4th Gordon Highlanders.

Armament Reduction Before American Senate

Disarmament Universally Desired

(By Our Own Correspondent)
New York, April 8.—Yesterday Senator Pepper introduced a resolution in the Senate at Washington which bids fair to focus attention upon the interesting question of world peace or world war. The resolution, in brief, provides for the calling of a new conference of nations in behalf of world peace, reduction of naval, land and aerial armaments, the codification of international laws and an establishment of a world court dissociated and distinguished from the League of Nations.

Notwithstanding the fact that the resolution will likely result in a revival of discussion of world-wide peace, as well as the limitation of armaments, it is difficult to see how the obstacles as to ways and means of obtaining peace will be overcome. Certainly the League of Nations plan will always have its opponents who will quote Washington and his admonition to avoid all entangling alliances. Others will say that no good thing could come from the brain of the late President Wilson who wrought such a conspicuous work in the interest of the League. But progress may be seen from the attitude of the Pennsylvania Senator whose political persuasions are opposite to those which were held by Mr. Wilson—progress toward peace even though the resolution would call a congress of nations to consider a plan for a world court separate and wholly distinct from the League of Nations, and from the courts as at present constituted and conducted.

OPPOSE REVOLUTION
The resolution met immediate opposition on the floor of the Senate and Democrats who supported the League of Nations and for their pains went down in defeat to the tune of some seven millions of votes at the last presidential election, were quick to question Senator Pepper and criticize the measure. Led by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the minority leader, the argument was advanced that 34 nations at the Hague are striving at this time for a limitation of armaments and have extended an invitation to the United States to join them in their efforts. Senator Swanson of Virginia thought, in referring to the resolution, that the United States having refused to associate itself with other nations of the world in a League, is now proposing that other nations associate themselves with the United States.

BOTH DESIRE PEACE
It will be recalled that the late President Harding, who was elected on a platform which did not advocate the League of Nations, favored an association of nations as distinguished from what was then termed a super-government. He called together a conference of the powers which met in Washington in the winter of 1921 and 1922 and a discussion of methods of limitation of armaments was indulged in, possibly not without ultimate results of a highly beneficial nature. Some have said that the conference accomplished things which may prove, in the light of subsequent events, to be monuments of peace-making. Among other things, it may be said that the United States virtually agreed to relinquish superiority as a sea-power, to forego the construction of a naval base at Guam, and to curtail the extension of the fortifications planned for Manila. The conference further, by bringing together the powers around the council table, took a step towards dissolving the agreement existing between Japan and England which had been in effect since 1921. It also advanced along the road toward international peace when the understanding between the United States and Japan was cancelled. It had been recognized that Japan had special interests in China. The open door of equality of opportunity in China to the trade and industry of all nations, were principles revived by the so-called 21-power treaty.

The conference, therefore, did much that was good and probably much remains to be done in event criticism of the resolution is much editorial comment by Democratic publications throughout the country. The charge is made, in varied forms but to the same effect, that Senator Pepper did not observe good faith in connection with the introduction of his resolution calling for another meeting in behalf of world peace and armament limitation. It is alleged that the Senator has attempted to draw across the path leading towards peace, the proverbial "Red Herring," that the resolution in question, is not to be taken at all seriously. Question is raised as to why the resolution was introduced. Some of the papers insist that it is a meaningless performance, tending only to impugn the motives and discredit the professions of those who advocate a world court entirely divorced and apart from any of the present existing organized efforts in that direction. Contentions are made that Europe has a valid claim upon the United States for counsel and advice; that in order to secure a new internationalism, hitherto the wounds of war and avert another conflict, as well as impending bankruptcy to European Nations, the United States will have to return to the task it abandoned and help to finish the uncompleted job of 1917.

U. S. Naval Radio To Shut Down In May, Says Cable

Cable reports received in Manila from the United States say that the U. S. Naval Radio operating between San Francisco and Manila, will be shut down during the month of May according to the Manila Times. New Bureau Will Seek Places For Japan's Emigrants

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Tokyo, May 5.—The problem of finding with Japan's surplus population is to be entrusted to newly-established bureau attached to the Department of Home Affairs, according to plans embodied in a bill which the government proposes to submit to the extraordinary session of Diet next July.
The new bureau, which will be known as the Immigration Affairs Bureau, will first of all, according to press reports, turn its attention to the unfilled districts of the home land, notably Hokkaido, where large tracts of land are as yet untouched.
For preliminary inquiries a commission of inspection will be dispatched to those districts, and reports submitted which the policy of the Bureau will be based.

French Make Offer For Tokio Subway

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Tokyo, May 5.—The question of constructing an underground railway in Tokyo has once again come to the front through the reported negotiations of the Japanese company and a certain French engineering concern, which it is understood, has approached the Japanese Government in the scheme with the offer of joint-investment in the venture the supply of a quantity of the needed steel material.
It is understood that France is ready to place at the disposal of the Japanese Underground Railway Co. the surplus of material left over after the completion of the post-bellum reconstruction work in France.
Further details will be announced later, it is stated.

Japan Will Offer Treasury Bonds

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Tokyo, May 5.—Twenty million yen's worth of 5 percent Treasury bonds will be offered for subscription between May 26 and June 10. The issue price is ¥1.00, and the bonds will mature on June 1, 1931.

Business and Official Notices

Le Consul General de France a l'honneur de porter à la connaissance des membres de la Colonie Française de Shanghai.

Il avait été décidé d'ouvrir une souscription parmi les membres de la Colonie Française de Shanghai pour constituer une prime qui devait être remise au Lieutenant Pelletier d'Oisy et à son mécanicien, à leur arrivée.

Les autorisations nécessaires avaient été obtenues.

Toutefois, le Lieutenant Pelletier d'Oisy, consulté par télex, a fait connaître de Bangkok qu'il est arrivé samedi qu'il acceptait avec reconnaissance une prime pour son mécanicien. Il préférerait en ce qui le concernait, recevoir un simple souvenir de son passage. Il convient que ce souvenir aussi bien que la somme destinée au mécanicien soient dignes du bel effort de nos compatriotes que nous espérons voir couronner de succès.

La souscription, dans ce cas, reste ouverte au Consulat General de France jusqu'au mercredi 14 Mai inclusivement. Tous les Français, j'en suis persuadé, voudront y participer.

Shanghai, 12th May, 1924.

SPECIAL DAILY
FEATUREFINANCIAL AND TRADE ARTICLEBUSINESS MEN
IN NORTH SEE
RAINBOWS BUT
TRADE IS DULL

Boom in Manchuria Is Largely Due To
Army Buying

CAUTION ADVISED

Merchants In Harbin Are Seriously Overstocked

"You can see rainbows, but don't let them lead you too far."

It was in this manner that the general trade situation of North China was described by an American business man who returned to Shanghai yesterday from a trip to the principal trading centers between this port and Mukden. He visited Tientsin, Peking, Tsingtau
and several ports in Manchuria.
He explained what he meant about
the rainbows:

"Of course, business is bad.
Everybody knows that, but I observed encouraging signs, and while I think we must take advantage of opportunities, we must not be deceived into over-buying or any other rash procedure. For instance, in Manchuria the surface shows
business to be booming, and here
one could be deceived. It is well for us to know that 70 to 80 percent of this business grows out of General Chang Tso-lin's war demands. He is buying railway rolling stock, and all sorts of army supplies. The trader must know the nature of this demand
and that what the general is really doing is getting ready to destroy business, for should the war start there would be an instant paralysis of trade. You can see the rainbow there, but don't forget that at the end of it
there is a cannon."

"There are only about two hundred foreigners in Mukden aside from the Japanese. There you immediately begin to feel strong Japanese influence. They have the principal concession, and it is in this concession that General Chang Tso-lin has his home.
With their control of the South
Manchuria Railway, the Japanese
have a strategic position in trade matters."

HARBIN OVERSTOCKED

In Harbin the visitor found that merchants were seriously overstocked. They had been led too far by the "rainbow." Some time ago a large number of well-to-do Russians went to Harbin. The Russians are heavy eaters and they live well while they have money.
The serious thing now is that they have spent all their money and they are facing life penurious and with no means of earning. Cafes in Harbin that formerly did a tremendous business now are closing. The free-and-easy spenders have come to the limit of their resources.

A number of merchants in Harbin were misled some months ago
by the abnormal surface prosperity there. They counted on it lasting indefinitely and they bought two hundred tons of provisions when they should have purchased half that much. Consequently, they are overstocked
now and prices are weak.

The business situation in Harbin is further complicated by the uncertain relationship between China and the Soviet. This relationship must be stabilized before business can improve to any marked degree. Just now the trader should be very cautious in Harbin and do business on a strictly cash basis. In that city the merchants have come to the end of the "rainbow." For the moment the alluring colors are gone.

In Dairen the Japanese appear to have taken 75 percent of the soya bean business away from the Chinese in Newchwang. They state that in time they will get 100 percent of
it. This shift of the bean business is the outstanding feature of the trade situation at Dairen for the moment. At Dairen the Japanese have the advantage of excellent port facilities. They have large godowns and all of the necessary means for the efficient handling of cargoes, and also the tremendous backing of the South Manchurian Railway.

TIENTSIN BUSINESS

They say in Tientsin that the only large concerns which are making money there are the Kaishan Mining Administration and the Chee Hsin Cement Co. Both of these corporations are exceeding ly well-managed and are prospering to a high degree while business in other lines languishes. In spite of various adverse business conditions,

the demand for coal and cement
continues strong.

The great textile plants in Tientsin which were at one time extremely prosperous have not recovered from the slump in the cotton goods trade. Tanneries and other industrial enterprises are hard-pressed. A Tientsin business man summed up the situation there in this way:

"There is no trade and we are sitting tight, completely at the mercy of the banks that hold our over-drafts. Thank God, the banks are disposed to be lenient, although they do occasionally insist on our reducing a draft by a few thousand taels. This war talk and war preparation on all sides is hurting business, but the business men and the banks feel that a turn for the better must come some day, and so we are waiting for that day with as much patience as possible, but it seems like a long wait."

Peking, of course, never has been an important business center.
Nearly all of the American firms who opened offices there did so with the expectation of doing business with the Chinese Government. This plan has been a bitter disappointment. Most of the companies which have sold to the Government are unable to collect, and on the whole
this idea of doing a profitable trade with the Government had proved to be an empty dream.

SHANGHAI MARKET SAFE

The larger Chinese banks have their head offices in Peking and this circumstance has made the capital
something of a financial center.
However, the city is not being benefited from this situation at present because the native banks are far from prosperous. They are suffering from a number of causes
— general trade depression, careless management and political influence,
and the incessant demands for money from the impoverished Government. The bankers held a conference in Peking two weeks ago and are making a serious effort to improve conditions. They are curtailing unnecessary expense and have appointed financial experts to tell them how to succeed.

"How about Shanghai?" the visitor from the North was asked.
"I think we can look upon Shanghai as a sort of stabilizing wedge between North China and South China," he replied. "It is the safest market in the country just now.
There is much to be desired here in trade conditions, but collections are easier. Stocks of flour are reduced somewhat, and prices are stronger,
due, in part, to reports of improved conditions in the flour market in America, Canada and Australia.
There never has been an enormous turn-over in canned goods here, but the market at present is steady, particularly in milk. There seem to be no large stocks of canned goods."

Llewellyn And Co., Ltd.

The annual general meeting
of Messrs. J. Llewellyn and Co., Ltd., was held yesterday afternoon. Mr. W. J. Monk presiding, supported by Mr. A. W. Burkill.
The secretary having read the notice convening the meeting, the chairman said:

"I am afraid that after the rather optimistic tone which pre-valled at our annual meeting a year ago, you will today be feeling a distinct sense of disappointment at the result of the past year's working, and certainly there was nothing then to indicate that the net result of the following twelve months' trading would show such a falling away as has proved to be the case. We had last year to decide on the disposal of $17,422.75 net profit,
and whilst, as the year progressed it became obvious that we should not reach that level, it was very disappointing to find when the audited accounts were completed, that the balance came on the wrong side to the extent of $2,722.74.

The accounts are presented to you in the usual form and the figures for many of the items are so very approximate to those in the last statement that they call for no special comment. It is in connection with the figures appearing on the credit side of the profit and loss account as "balance from general working a/c" that you will like to have some explanation, since this item is the net figures resulting from various other accounts which do not appear in the report. It shows only the meager sum of $728.19
as against $20,889.12 last year.

Your directors have gone into the figures in detail and are satisfied that the chief factor in producing this reversal was the very poor sum we had last year
from the point of view of the acrated water business. As you know, we rely on this part of our business for a considerable contribution to the total profits, but the incidence of what is generally conceded to have been a cool
summer, comparatively speaking,
had a very marked effect on the sales, which declined in value by just 25 percent. Overhead charges on this department remained at practically the same figure, $24,- 758 as against $23,589—the slight excess being chiefly due to the rental of the Western depot,
to increased advertising of our products in the effort to bring in a larger demand and a small increment of salary to the factory manager as per agreement. We closed the year with almost exactly the same value of stocks on hand as at the end of the previous year, but purchases during the year were reduced by about 30 percent in ratio with the reduced volume of sales.

The net result of this sanction
of the business was a considerable reduction in the profit for which the reduced volume of sales practically accounts, since, as the overhead charges would have remained the same, the extra business would have been, to a very considerable extent, additional profit.

On the other side of our business, the store department, the volume of sales shows a slight increase over the previous year, $121,943—against $120,435—
and stocks in hand showed the same value within a few hundred dollars, $81,304—against $81,730.
Purchases during the year were approximately the same also.
Overhead charges were increased from $30,840.58 to $43,359.55, due chiefly to increased rental and to increments of salaries under agreements.

The conversion of a profit on this side of the business into a loss of $1,597.71 can be attributed chiefly to the necessity we have been under of reducing the margin of profit on our sales. The cost of stocks increased considerably over the preceding year on account of the appreciably lower average rate of exchange prevailing in 1923 as compared with 1922, whilst, on the other hand,
keen and increasing competition
has made it impossible for us to obtain a commensurate advance
in retail prices.

The figures shown in the balance sheet will need little comment. The acrated water plant and machinery was written down very heavily in the accounts
for 1921 and again very substantially in the 1922 accounts, and your Directors consider that the book value is now so conservative that no further depreciation is necessary this year. Furniture and fixtures of both departments
are written down by 10 percent,
which is an ample allowance in view of previous depreciations.
The motor vans now also stand at a very conservative book value.
Sundry debtors are the normal outstandings at the end of the year, the total just about the same as last year.

On the liabilities side of the account, sundry creditors and bills payable are also normal year-end and carry-overs, and are both similar in amount to the previous year. Our general reserve remains the same—$15,000
—and also the reserve for bad and doubtful debts. Our overdraft with the bank has increased by $10,192.58 but we have $10,000

at the credit of stock reserve account which did not figure in last year's balance sheet.

Your directors desire particularly to place on record that, in their opinion the adverse result of the year's trading can in no way be attributed to any lack of effort and energy on the part of the company's staff. In Mr. Whyte we have a very conscientious and extremely hard-working general manager, who has received every assistance from the other members of the staff; all of them have been their best in circumstances
which were against the production of a better visible result. The general depression in the trade of this port still continues, as we all know from the experience of our own private businesses, but your Directors feel that we have just as good a chance as any of our competitors to extract the maximum advantage from such conditions as may obtain during the current year, and assure you that your Directors will continue to combine to the best of your interests.

The balance available for disposal being only $7,993.44, your Directors recommend that the whole of this amount be carried forward to the new account,
which I shall formally propose
after first giving you the opportunity for any questions you may wish to ask or any comment you may care to make.

New Offensive On Franc Is Alleged

(French Wireless through Reuters)

Paris May 10.—The rise in fore-constitutes a new offensive against the franc by speculators who have taken their cue from Ger-

impression on the public on the eve of the elections. The press believes that this manoeuvre will have no effect on public opinion and will be calmly countered by the measures taken by the Banque
de France and the Government.

DESCRIBE RECORD GROWTH OF HAIR-NET INDUSTRY

Cutting Of Pigtails After Revolution Gives Fillip To Business

Perhaps no Chinese infant industry has had a more phenomenal growth than that of making hairnets, which now gives employment to thousands who are providing these articles for millions of women in America and Europe.

Although the industry was introduced in China by the Germans only 15 years ago, in 1920 more than 140,000,000 hairnets were shipped to America from a single Chinese city, and the total annual exports of this product are valued at more than $10,000,000.

How the nets are made by hand, for which the workers receive about one cent each for making them, is described in the National Geographic Magazine by Mr. H. W. Robinson. The average person can hardly make ten a day.

There are three important factors that have made the hairnet industry almost exclusive to North China: first, a large supply of hair is found there; second, cheap labor is plentiful, and third, the industry requires no machinery and can be carried on in the home.

Probably no other land has a more distinctive national peculiarity than the Chinese pigtail, and like so many other social customs, it persists long after the cause for which it stood. The revolutionists of 1911 tried to do away with it and ordered that all queues be cut off. Those who objected were in danger of losing head as well as pigtail, and the queues provided a handy means of suspending the heads along the city streets as an effective suggestion that the revolutionists meant business. In most places of North China, however, the raising of hair continues, and no other region can well compete with this in providing raw material for hairnets. It is claimed that Chinese hair is especially suited for hairnets because it is stronger than the fine hair of European women, and therefore stands bleaching and dyeing much better.

Chinese women do not patronize the barbers, but comb their own hair at home. Nothing is wasted, however; the combings are saved from day to day and, when a sufficient quantity is collected, it is sold or exchanged for small household articles. In some places vendors travel from house to house, calling out, "Needles, thread, and matches exchanged for hair combings."

This raw hair is sold very cheaply, and when girls are learning to make nets, it is used for practice purposes.

Enough hair can be purchased for 50 cents to last a class of 50 or 75 girls a month, while they are learning to make nets. As soon as they are able to make salable nets, they use prepared hair, which costs as much as several dollars a pound, depending on length and other qualities. A pound of hair will make over 2,000 nets, for a whole gross of hairnets weigh only about one ounce.

The processes of bleaching and dyeing the hair are the most difficult parts of the hairnet industry. All the raw hair was formerly shipped from China to Europe or America, where it was bleached and dyed by experts, and then sent back to China for manufacture. But as the industry has developed, the preparation of the hair has also been transferred in great part to China. Probably nine-tenths of the hairnets exported from China at present are made from hair that has been prepared in that country. Chinese firms are undertaking this work, but as they have not yet mastered the scientific processes, their product is somewhat impaired by crude methods and careless treatment. At least one American firm has already completed arrangements to prepare its own hair in China under the supervision of expert American chemists.

A single net requires the tying of a thousand knots or more, but if a girl is clever she can make as high as twenty coppers a day; and, as she can live on much less than that, she often not only supports herself, but helps other members of the family as well.

The girls work in their own homes, where they have always been secluded. The only tools needed are a small brass shuttle and a bamboo splint. On a nail driven into a table or chair the first loop of the net is fastened. The hair is wound into a shuttle, like thread into a bobbin, and as each new loop is tied it is slipped onto the bamboo splint like a stitch on a knitting needle. Thus, with shuttle in one hand and bamboo splint in the other, the maker adds knot to knot and loop to loop until the net is completed.

Then the nets are tied together in bunches of one gross each. For this a piece of board, into which nails have been driven, is provided, and the loops on the edge of the net are slipped over the nails until a pile of 144 nets is made. They are then tied with thread and are ready for the agent when he comes to collect, pay for making and to leave more hair.

Tsingtao And The Comedy Of The Chinese And U.S. Fleets

SEVERAL months ago, General Wu Pei-fu raised something like $600,000 by making a loan from the surplus of the Shantung Railway and with this sum "induced" the southern section of the Chinese Fleet which has been loyal to Dr. Sun Yat-sen to leave Canton and steam, or rather limp, up the coast to Kiaochow Bay. Immediately after it became known that it was General Wu's intention to station the Fleet permanently at Tsingtao the Chinese merchants at that port made an outcry which reached to the high heavens. The Chinese merchants at Tsingtao are, of course, patriotic and self-sacrificing, but they were very emphatic in their statements that they did not require any fleet anchored along the foreshore to stimulate their patriotism.

But their outcry made no difference to the Loyal Warlord. The Fleet is stationed at Tsingtao, or rather at Tsingtao and Chefoo, and that's that! Now for the comedy part:

The China section of the U. S. Pacific Fleet for many years has been accustomed to making its summer base at the Chinese port of Chefoo (Just north of Tsingtao, also in Shantung province) where target practice is held and the officers and men are given a little vacation from life in the tropics. The stationing of the American Fleet at this port every summer has always constituted a great—yes, we might say—a supreme pleasure for the Chinese merchants at Chefoo, for it has been estimated that it brings into the port between $60,000 to $100,000 a month which the officers and sailors—and their wives—spend during the summer. The fact that the American Fleet has always been partial to Chefoo has constituted a source of supreme envy on the part of the Chinese merchants at Tsingtao who saw all of this good American money going to a rival port. And this envy has been especially marked in recent years since the Japanese Fleet evacuated Kiaochow Bay.

So a few weeks ago—according to report—the merchants of Tsingtao got busy and circulated a petition to the Admiral of the U. S. Pacific Fleet asking him to spend at least part of his summer vacation at Tsingtao. It was not fair or just for the great and honorable American Admiral always to stop at Chefoo, and so on, went the petition. Just what the Admiral of the U. S. Pacific Fleet has decided to do we do not know, but it strikes us as being supremely humorous that, at the very time when one group of Tsingtao merchants were petitioning the American Fleet to spend its summer vacation in Kiaochow Bay that another group of Chinese merchants in the Chamber of Commerce were passing resolutions demanding that General Wu Pei-fu take the Chinese fleet away—anywhere—sink it in the sea, leave it in Shanghai, send it to Japan, do anything with it except station it in Kiaochow Bay.

The explanation for these diametrically opposed views of the Tsingtao merchants in reference to the American and Chinese Fleets, or, in other words, friendship for the American Fleet and opposition to the Chinese Fleet, are due to the obvious facts that the American Fleet brings money into the port and the Chinese Fleet takes it out. The opposition of the Shantung merchants to the stationing of the Chinese Fleet at Tsingtao has been due to the belief all along that it is General Wu Pei-fu's intentions to saddle the support of the Fleet upon the administration of the Kiaochow area and the Shantung Railway. It is possible, however, that the new administration which has just been installed both at Tsingtao and on the Shantung Railway may be able to work out a method whereby the maintenance of the Fleet may not be so distasteful to the Shantung people. Just how this will be worked out is not yet apparent, but it may be done by remitting the funds to Peking and then handing them over to the Fleet. The money would thus come theoretically from the general funds and although supplied, in reality, from the Shantung surplus, the odium of forcing Shantung to support a fleet, which should belong to the whole country, would be removed.

General Wu's reasons for stationing the Fleet along the Shantung coast are apparently a part of his general strategy against General Chang Tso-lin at Mukden. Two years ago, when Gen. Wu and General Chang were conducting their civil war, Chang attempted to get in behind Wu's lines by landing officers and munitions on the Shantung coast, some of which were transported inland and used in arming and organizing bandit gangs. The war ended too quickly for the plan to be effective, but General Wu is taking no further chances in case of another outbreak. The recent reorganization of the Shantung Railway and the establishment of a definite and distinct administration at Tsingtao under the Governorship of Mr. Gow En-hung, former Minister of Communications, unquestionably brings Shantung province under the direct control of General Wu, and, to this extent, strengthens his position as the controller of the destinies of North China.

Major Martin Safe

CONSIDERABLE relief will be felt, we are sure, as a result of the news which we publish in another column to the effect that Major Martin and his mechanic, who were lost recently in Alaska, have turned up safe and sound. The details of how their machine came to be wrecked are at present scanty enough, though it is sufficient for the average aviator to be told that they crashed on a mountain in a fog. The "bottle of milk" atmosphere, a description which applies to a blinding snowstorm or fog, is one of the terrors which beset the aviator, more particularly on an uncharted course such as is the northern Pacific. Had it been clear weather, the Major would probably have flown high enough to pass over the mountain, or at any rate would have seen his danger quickly enough to have averted accident. But probably in his desire to keep as much as possible in sight of land he was flying low, while the atmosphere of fog into which he flew might not only have robbed him of all knowledge of his whereabouts but also have kept him in practical ignorance of what danger lay ahead of him.

As it was, he and his mechanic were fortunate in landing without any mishap to themselves which would prevent them taking the eight-day trek which lay between the scene of the accident and the trapper's hut where they were fortunate enough to find supplies and means of obtaining a three-day rest. In the present state of development in aviation, these long distance flights are such as to call forth the highest degree of intrepidity. Mechanical invention has not yet so far progressed as to make it possible for long flights to be undertaken without grave risk of such accident arising from defects in the machines themselves, while the navigation of unknown air routes is attended with even more possibilities of sudden disaster than were ever faced by those whose pioneering was conducted in the media of two dimensions only. We can only express the highest possible gratification that Major Martin has not proved the total loss it was regrettably feared he would be and that he may yet be able to complete the flight which he and his brave companions have undertaken.

The Elections In France

IN Paris today all other issues, even perhaps the vexed question of reparations, will be overshadowed by the general elections, which, dramatically enough, coincided with the Joan of Arc fete-day on Sunday. Whether the heavy polling is to be attributed to the prevalence of fine weather we cannot say, but those who see eye to eye with M. Poincare in his foreign policy will be heartened by the announcement that the earliest returns are in favor of the Government. A later message received yesterday stated that provisional estimates on the election indicated that the Parties of the Left, were gaining some ground, principally in the South, which is a recognized Radical stronghold, but that there was no marked change in the state of the parties, although voting is considerably heavier than at the last election, for reasons which will readily occur to students of current events in Europe, in which France is playing such a vital role.

Whatever happens in the French political waters this spring should be judged in the light of the national elections now in progress. Every move of the political men of war has reference to the present contest. The weeks immediately preceding the elections witnessed the spectacle of the party lines being drawn more and more strictly. Gradually every candidate had to declare himself either for or against the National Bloc. The resignation of Premier Poincare was probably such a tactical move. After the passage of the financial bills, increasing the taxes by 20 per cent., and giving the Government autocratic powers to effect economies without consulting Parliament, he became the indispensable pilot of the National Republicans. Without his leadership and his prestige, the deputies who so loyally supported him could not hope for success in the elections. The National Bloc could scarcely afford to allow M. Poincare to withdraw at the crucial point which formed the subject-matter of recent cables. It depended on him to "make" the elections. In France, as in the United States, control of the machinery is an advantage to the party in power. The defeat by a margin of seven votes was an accident, not a condemnation. Short of a Millerand dictatorship, the National Bloc had no alternate commander, M. Briand, the ex-Premier, who has now been elected, having committed himself to the Left.

For some time, M. Poincare has had to sail close to the wind. His majorities have been smaller and smaller. Repeatedly his Ministers, as well as himself, have had to risk the question of confidence in order to get favorable votes. Ordinarily this is not done, except in extreme cases, and when a Prime Minister stakes the life of his administration on a particular issue, he has usually made up his mind what to do in case of defeat. Has M. Poincare courted an unfavorable vote, so as to get an excuse to resign and reconstruct his battle line? For some time there have been rumors that he wanted to be put into the minority on a minor issue in order to save himself and his work on the principal one—the Ruhr and all it implies. The electoral bill was supposed to afford such an opportunity. It was passed in the Chamber of Deputies by a small margin. Furthermore, President Millerand had taken the almost unprecedented course of announcing, through his political friends, that he also would resign if the old ward system were restored, as demanded by the Radical Party group. In the Senate this party has a majority, and the Senate Committee on Suffrage reported against the proportional system, to which both M. Poincare and M. Millerand were committed. Had the Senate, as a whole, followed its advice, not only a Ministerial, but also a Presidential, crisis would have ensued. But the Radical Party, which is awaiting its opportunity after the elections, let the Government bill pass by default. It does not want the burden of executive power at this juncture.

Without resigning, M. Poincare has also been repeatedly urged to reconstruct his Cabinet, so as to make it more seaworthy in the electoral combat. Several of his Ministers have not aided his prestige. On the contrary, they have become so much dead weight. This applies, in particular, to M. Reibel, Minister of Reconstruction, whose authority has been hurt by the disclosures concerning padded claims for war damages; to M. Cheron, Minister of Agriculture, whose policy, favoring the farmers, has increased the cost of living for the city workers, and finally to Count Charles de Lasteyrie, Minister of Finance, whose lack of foresight has been blamed for the sensational drop in the value of the franc. The Count, moreover, is a Treasury official rather than a political party leader, and each Minister is expected in critical times, like the present, to assure the Government a definite number of votes. Premier Poincare has, however, refused to ask for the resignation of individual Cabinet members, though they have become a hindrance rather than a help. There is nothing which M. Poincare does without some definite motive, which may not be apparent to the casual observer but is quite transparent to those who look beneath the surface. Being a scientist of no mean order, M. Poincare knows the value of scientific exactitude in political as in other matters. He is credited with the intention of retrimming his sails on the morrow of the elections, and is probably fated to play no insignificant role in the councils of his country. As our French friends would say, "Nous verrons que nous verrons."

Manners In Rugby

THERE are times when Reuter is either amusing or guilty of messages which may be interpreted in that vein. For example, on another page is published a telegram stating that in the Rugby Olympic competition the United States beat Rumania by 37 points to 0 and that "the Americans played a hard, dashing game, but rough stuff was conspicuously absent." Of course, Rugby, as originally developed, was the politest of all possible games, the thirty players taking part in the game, struggling to obtain command of one small ball, being controlled in their behavior by the most urgent of courteous canons. For example, one player taking the ball from another would raise his cap and murmur "Permit me." Later, however, the haste with which the game was played led to the abandonment of the manners of the preux chevalier and the introduction of such rough and uncouth manners as heeling a player who clung too tenaciously to the oblate spheroid. But still, despite the fact that collar bones and even thighs might be broken, there was no "rough stuff" to be noticed. As Artemus Ward would say, "This is wrote sarkastik."

Rugby never has been anything but a strenuous game in which the players take whatever hard knocks come their way, though, of course, there may be varying degrees of roughness. The complaint we have with the message to which we refer is that by insisting upon the absence of "rough stuff" there is an inference to be drawn that on other occasions the American fifteen have not been as polite to their opponents, as apparently Reuter's correspondent would desire. It would obviously have been fairer to have levelled the charge of roughness against the American fifteen in the first instance had they been guilty of such, than to do so by innuendo, as appears to be the case in this instance. We print the message in order that a good deed may shine in an all too naughty world, and we look forward to the time when Reuter will be able to tell us that the American team behaved most considerately to its opponents, and never interfered with any of their movements, except in the most dignified and courteous manner. That time will come when Rugby is played in evening dress and dancing shoes.

EXCERPTS FROM GREAT WRITERS

FREEDOM OF MIND

Let us free our institutions of learning. Let us dedicate them to the science of eternal truth. Let us tell every teacher to ascertain all the facts he can—give us light, to follow Nature, no matter where she leads; to be infinitely true to himself and us; to feel that he is without a chain, except the obligation to be honest; that he is bound by no books; by no creed, neither by the sayings of the dead nor of the living; that he is asked to look with his own eyes, to reason for himself without fear, to investigate in every possible direction, and to bring us the fruit of all his work.

To give up your individuality is to annihilate yourself. Mental slavery is mental death, and every man who has given up his intellectual freedom is the living coffin of his dead soul.

There is no more degrading doctrine than that of mental non-resistance. To render benefits for injuries is to ignore all distinctions between actions. He who treats his friends and enemies alike has neither love nor justice. The idea of non-resistance never occurred to a man with power to protect himself. This doctrine was the child of weakness, born when resistance was impossible.

Supernatural religion will fade from this world, and in its place we will have reason. In the place of the worship of something we know not of, will be the religion of mutual love and assistance—the great religion of reciprocity.

Men change their opinions as long as they grow, and only those remain of the same opinion still who have reached the intellectual autumn of their lives; who have gone to seed, and who are simply waiting for the winter of death. Now and then there is a brain in which there is the climate of perpetual spring—men who never grow old—and when such a one is found we say, "Here is a genius."

We must remember that there is a great difference between a myth and a miracle. A myth is the idealization of a fact. A miracle is the counterfeit of a fact. There is the same difference between a myth and a miracle that there is between fiction and falsehood—between poetry and perjury.

In all the myths and legends of the past we find philosophies and dreams and efforts, stained with tears, of great and tender souls who tried to pierce the mysteries of life and death, to answer the questions of the whence and whither, and who vainly sought with bits of shattered glass to make a mirror that would, in very truth, reflect the fact and form of Nature's perfect self.

In them the winds and waves were music, and all the springs, the mountains, woods and perfumed dells were haunted by a thousand fairy forms.

They thrilled the veins of Spring with tremulous desire, made tawny Summer's billowy breast the throne and home of love, filled Autumn's arms with sun-kissed grapes and gathered sheaves, and pictured Winter as a weak old king, who felt, like Lear, upon his withered face Cordelia's tears. These myths, though false in fact, are beautiful and true in thought, and have for many ages and in countless ways enriched the heart and kindled thought.

Our ancestors knew but little of nature. They were too astonished to investigate. They could not divest themselves of the idea that everything happened with reference to them; that they caused storms and earthquakes; that they brought the tempest and the whirlwind; that on account of something they had done, or omitted to do, the lightning of vengeance leaped from the darkened sky. By putting intention behind what man called good, God was produced. By putting intention behind what man called bad, the Devil was created.

Electric Cooking

Points that Count:—

Anyone who is sceptical about Electric Cooking—its possibilities, convenience and economy—has only to make a trial of one or two pieces of apparatus to become a pronounced convert.

CLEANLINESS.—There are no smells or noxious fumes; no dust, soot or ashes as with coal.

RELIABILITY.—Electric Cooking appliances are now as strong, serviceable and reliable as the ordinary cooking utensils.

CONVENIENCE.—No fires to light—no matches. Simply a switch to touch.

SAFETY.—Electric Cookers are ABSOLUTELY SAFE IN anybody's hands.

ment should never surrender its power to include the plant in any super-power connection which the future may develop. The farmers, however, have been made to believe that if Ford gets the plant they will have cheap nitrates forever. The fact is that Ford is not likely to affect the price of nitrates and probably will not make them in quantity. He does not agree to unless he can sell at 8 percent profit on the turnover, and no one familiar with the subject believes he can do that. In competition with Chile. In any case, the power which he agrees to divert to nitrate production will produce but about 5 percent of the nitrates now used in the country and probably hardly more than 1 percent of what we should and shall use. But with Mr. Ford's uncanny skill in getting free advertising, the activity of his agents in every town and the enthusiastic boasting of the speculators, who want him to build a new city on land which they have bought, he has set the farmers wild. As an example of effective suggestion on a strictly economic proposition it is unique. All the same, the most costly way of getting nitrates is to extract them from the air. Of course, cheaper processes may be developed.

Good Taste In Dressing

THE USE OF COSMETICS

Today I am going to talk about the use of cosmetics. I approach this matter, not from the standpoint of a beauty expert, but from the angle of pure common sense. Elsewhere I have discussed the general subject of the care of the skin, but in this article I want to go at the subject from a slightly different angle.

If you have been following these little talks you will already know that I approve of the use of cosmetics. But I make certain reservations. The obvious is never interesting or attractive, least of all when it pertains to a woman's appearance. That is my opinion, and that is why, perhaps, I am not greatly in favor of the use of a black court plaster beauty mark, placed strategically near the eye. It is just a little too obvious. One should be more subtle.

On the other hand, I think it is unfortunate that a woman who can quite definitely add to her appearance by the use of a rouge or a lipstick, ignores these helps because she feels it is not right to use "make-up." The days, when women who employed these "aids to nature" were considered not all that they should be, as the critical observer, are past and gone. Other days, other ways!

The mistake that some of us make is in applying "nature's aids" with too heavy a hand. Subtlety is immediately sacrificed.

To get down to facts—it has been said that the reason for the lovely skin of the Japanese woman is that the Japanese use perishingly hot water in their baths. Be that as it may, it is practically an accepted fact that good hot water is cleansing for the skin. Therefore, if you use rouge and powder you want to remember that the pores of the face can easily become clogged, so that they cannot breathe if the face is not well cleansed before going to bed. It is well to make it a point to wash the face thoroughly both night and morning with hot water and a rough washcloth, rinsing it afterward with invigorating cold water with its tonic, freshening value. The question of the use of soap on the face is to my way of thinking, a matter for the individual to determine. A good pure soap should be used provided the skin is not so sensitive that it immediately becomes dried and chapped. In that case cold cream is better.

The Japanese use perishingly hot water

If there is any tendency to hair growth on the face cold cream should be used sparingly, and should be rubbed off and washed off at once instead of being allowed to remain on the face for any length of time.

Now, then, when you have washed your face with hot and cold water, and cleansed it, either with soap or cream, and have dried it on a good rough towel, which also helps to keep the blood circulating, brush it lightly with powder.

Do not buy your rouge thoughtlessly. More than one shade can be had. Buy the shade that blends best with your own complexion. Put it on carefully, just lightly touching your skin with the puff. Smooth it in with the tips of your fingers. If it seems too bright add a little powder over the rouge. With care you can use your rouge so well that it will be almost impossible to detect it. But why be drab and colorless when a touch of color, skillfully applied, will add so greatly to your appearance?

As for a lip stick, you do not have to get a brilliant, unsightly red. There are fainter shades that merely emphasize rather than color the lips. You'll enjoy your improved appearance!

The Spectator Unconscious Influence

Sometimes it seems as if a greater part of all the good and evil we do is done unconsciously.

What we do of set purpose does not, as often as not, bring the results we had hoped. A man builds a new house, and his wife dies in it the first month. He gives his boy the best college training and the youngster joins a circus troupe; or he casts him out for a good-for-nothing and the rascal becomes a bishop. You give a pitiable tramp a dollar and he gets and gets drunk with it; you refuse him and in desperation he goes to the Salvation Army meeting and gets converted. A man who never gives a cent to charity or church carries on a huge business and gives employment to a thousand men, making their lives bright and content; while—well, you know the other kind of man.

So what is one to do? Probably the best way is to do what you can according to your lights.

"The bee," says J. A. Spencer, "builds her cell and gathers honey to fill it, but all unconsciously she is the agent of another service, bearing the pollen from flower to flower. So we, while we go about our own business, are unconsciously the ministers of others, fertilizing them if we are fortunate, blighting them if we are not."

But why worry? Really all the good we can do is the light we shed. All our value is in our shining.

This world is helped along not so much by the direct conscious effort of uplifters as it is by the indirect and unconscious influence of the decent.

Mankind is slowly rising out from the heritage of the brute into a better order. This ascent is not so much due to the direct efforts of reformers as to the indirect effect of those who are leading right lives. Those who wish to bring about the millennium on this earth will be more sure to accomplish their desire if they put forth a consistent and intelligent effort to make people happy than if they confine their energies to making people good.

No one who lives the truth as he sees it, who seeks the beautiful and expresses it as much as he can, who tries to be happy himself and is a source of happiness to others, has lived in vain. But there is many a wild-eyed reformer who has tried to impose his opinions upon the world and done more harm than good.

The Power Of Suggestion

By Edward F. Adams

It is only within a few years that psychology has become a subject of popular discussion, having been made popular mainly by interest in mental healing. From that beginning psychological phenomena, as such, have been subjects of increasing popular interest. Of course, such phenomena have always been recognized. The encouragement of a careful physician has always been considered an important element in healing. Judicious parents have always sought to keep their boys out of "bad company." The financial press has always sought to inspire confidence to ward off a panic. A run on one bank has always tended to start runs on other banks. An angry mob is rarely dangerous till a leader appears, under whose suggestion it may commit any act of barbarity. All such influences have been recognized, but not, in the popular mind, as "psychological phenomena" and proper objects of scientific analysis. Recently psychology as a science has been coming to its own and gives some promise of being regarded as the most important of sciences.

The active principle in psychology is suggestion. The most influential person is he who can inspire the largest number of people to do his bidding. It is absolutely the most important factor in political and international action and probably more often used for evil than for good. It is the genesis of war, rebellion and all forms of hate. It is rarely used to promote good will among men. Its effects are possible because the masses do not think intelligently on the larger affairs of life because they cannot. They have not the data. To get the determining facts on any important question is beyond possibility to the masses because they have not the necessary time and means at their disposal. The masses are honest and well meaning. The people are almost certain to judge right and act right on what they understand and are quite sure in the end to understand whatever is important to them. In the meantime they act on what they believe to be true. The art of the demagogue is to set the multitude to believe what he wishes them to believe and act before they find out to the contrary. It is of the essence of politics as opposed to statesmanship, which investigates before action. Its outward sign is the "slogan." A slogan is a word or phrase which suggests something which sounds good or bad without meaning anything in particular. It is the basis of practical politics. Take the word "progressive," which suggests nice men getting on in the world, or the word "reactionary," which suggests bad men hanging back. Now the fact is that we are all seeking to improve our situation and incidentally that of mankind, and close analysis shows that the words, as used politically, can only mean those who act without thinking and those who think before acting.

Possibly the most amusing case of suggestion on record is that which has inspired the farmers of the country to demand that Henry Ford shall have Muscle Shoals and a hundred years in which to pay for the structures built and to be free from restrictions and power of "recapture" imposed on all others by the Federal power act. The farmers say Ford must have it in order that they may get "cheap fertilizers." The facts are that the power developed at Muscle Shoals should be used, first, to supply the needs of the

and the sale price of the s.s. "Yuensang" and s.s. "Kumsang." Economies in running the fleet, consistent with efficiency, have been adopted wherever and whenever possible, and if further reductions can be effected in the heavier items of overhead charges, your directors, who are giving the matter their careful consideration, will give effect thereto. I do not think there is anything more in the accounts calling for special comment, and I therefore beg to propose the following resolution: "That the report and statement of accounts, as presented, be adopted and that a dividend of 6/- per share on the Cumulative Preferred Ordinary Shares be paid, also that the amount of £1,179 8s. 9d. be carried forward to next year. The Dividend on the Shares on the Hongkong Register to be paid at Exchange 2/4%." As soon as this has been seconded, I shall be glad in answer to the best of my ability any questions which shareholders may wish to ask.

BUSINESS MATTERS

On the proposition of Mr. Horne, seconded by Mr. Ho Leung, the appointment of Mr. G. W. Barton as a Director from May 31, 1923, was confirmed. It was proposed by Mr. A. B. Stewart and seconded by Mr. Le Cheung-shu, that Sir Paul Chater and Mr. H. P. White be re-elected directors for the ensuing year. This was unanimously agreed to. On the proposition of Mr. Galoway, seconded by Mr. Hall, the Hon. Mr. A. R. Lowe and Mr. John Fleming were re-elected auditors for the year 1924, at a remuneration of $5,000.

U. S. ADMIRAL IS GUEST OF HANKOW CLUB

Americans Up-River Entertain Commander Of Fleet

(Independent News Service)

Hankow, May 6.—A very well attended tiffin was given yesterday at the Hankow Club by the American Chamber of Commerce to Admiral Thomas Washington in command of the U. S. Asiatic Fleet. Practically every member of the Chamber was present to meet Admiral Washington again, as well as many honorary guests.

At the conclusion of the tiffin Mr. Hunter Mann, Chairman of the American Chamber of Commerce, introduced Admiral Washington, welcoming him to our port on behalf of the Chamber and mentioning the fact that the Americans here would like to see the United States cruiser "Huron" visit this port some time next month provided the depth of the river permits.

Admiral Washington spoke of his previous visits to Hankow in 1891 and 1902 and commented on the great changes in Hankow, and China generally, in the years since then. He expressed gratification when commenting on the type of Americans now residing and carrying on business in this country in spite of the many handicaps with which they have to contend under the present unsettled conditions prevailing here. In speaking of the proposed new gunboats for Yangtze patrol work, Admiral Washington urged the members of the Chamber to communicate with their home representatives so that this question, so vital to Americans trading in the Yangtze valley, will not be allowed to be passed over without action. Speaking of the urgent necessity for these vessels to protect the peaceful and legitimate trade of Americans in this part of the country, he stated that it would probably take eighteen months from the time Congress appropriated the funds for the building of these gunboats until their completion and being put into service. For this reason he advised the members of the Chamber to urge their request for the appropriation without unnecessary loss of time.

Begin Inquest Over Body Of Slain Watchman

An inquest was begun yesterday by Assessor Whitmore and Magistrate Li over the body of Wong Pau-pau, the Public Works Department watchman found strangled in his hut at the Markham Road Depot last Saturday morning. Detective Sub-Inspector Quayle stated that the deceased, who was employed at the P. W. D. stoneyard, had been seen to return to his hut, evidently under the influence of liquor, at about 9.30 p.m. Friday. It was the custom to call him at 6.15 a.m. but Saturday morning there was no response and when the hut was entered the watchman was found with a cord around his neck, a cloth gag over his mouth and his feet tied. Inquiries developed that the man should have been in possession of at least $20 and a gold ring, while a paper was found indicating that he also possessed a wristwatch, all of which property was missing. The inquest was adjourned to the Mixed Court.

MOTOR VICTIM

An inquest was held yesterday by Assessor Whitmore and Magistrate Li over the body of a Chinese named Zung Sz-kwang 53 years old, who was struck by a motor car at Brennan and Warren Roads on April 20 and died at the Shantung Road Hospital last Saturday. Police testimony was given to the effect that the man was knocked down as he tried to cross the road in front of the car and that two foreign passengers, who have since left Shanghai, absolved the chauffeur from blame. The son of the victim said that his father had instructed him to prosecute, declaring that no horn was sounded. The chauffeur stated that he was driving at about ten miles an hour when the pedestrian, carrying a pot of tea, stepped in front of the car. The tea pot was struck and the man fell and was then hit by the machine. The court returned a verdict to the effect that deceased met his death through injuries sustained when he was struck by the car.

Arrange Reception For Panchan Lama

(Reuters Pacific Service)

Peking, May 9.—The Mongolian and Tibetan Affairs Department has requested the permission of the President to appoint General Hai Yu, a Mongolian Member for the House of Representatives, as an assistant to Mr. Ta Shou in preparing for the reception of the Panchan Lama.

RISK FIRMS IN JAPAN BEGIN TO PAY QUAKE LOSS

Small Claims Given Preference As Insurance Companies Start Settling

(Reuters Pacific Service)

Tokio, May 5.—The long-deferred fire insurance problem, arising out of last September's catastrophe, is from today receiving its final settlement, the companies concerned having started paying out a certain percentage of the claims, after coming to an arrangement with the Government.

Claims up to Y. 5,000 in value are to be paid to the extent of ten percent; those above Y. 5,000 and below Y. 10,000, 2 percent; those above Y. 10,000 and below Y. 15,000, 2 percent and those above Y. 15,000, 5 percent.

The foregoing percentages are standards merely, and will vary according to the financial condition of the insured.

Insurance companies' offices have today been crowded with claimants, in some cases so numerous that police had to be sent out to preserve order.

As far as possible the people insured for small sums have had preferential treatment.

Payments will continue for the next three days.

American Women To Take Sailors On Tour Of City

The American Women's Club will take the American sailors on a sightseeing trip about the city in their cars on Friday afternoon of this week. Mrs. Leonard W. Hartigan, chairman of the club department of the A.W.C. has sent an appeal to the ladies of the club asking them to provide cars for this trip on Friday at 3 o'clock to be sent to the Navy "Y" for the sailors. There may be owners of cars who have not received the request and these are asked to communicate with Mrs. Hartigan, 66 Seebuen Road, offering their car for the trip. It is hoped that a hundred cars will be available.

Few sailors know anything about the city beyond the business part. To be taken around Shanghai with the owner of the car as guide will be a great pleasure to them. The cars will arrive at the Navy "Y" at 3 o'clock and receive their quota of sailors. The choice of a route is left entirely to the owner of the car. There are many places in Shanghai that could be included in the tour. There are Lungwa Pagoda, if the roads are good, and French Park; a ride along Avenue Joffre and around the Rubicon; American School and St. John's University; silk filature or factory; or just a two hours' ride through interesting streets.

Capt. Pitcairn Is Visitor Here; Goes Home On Long Leave

Captain W. G. Pitcairn, river inspector for the Chinese Maritime Customs on the Upper Yangtze, is in Shanghai from Chungking en route home on long leave. Capt. Pitcairn, who is now stopping at the Palace Hotel, has spent the past five years in the Upper Yangtze service, and his home leave is now three years' overdue. Captain Pitcairn has the distinction of being the first foreigner to take a ship safely upriver from Ichang to Chungking without a Chinese pilot.
